Spectator Notes

The picture below is offered for your puzzlement. Our congratulations if you guess where it was taken... For the right answer, tune in at the bottom of the Notes.

Ted and Lib Durein are back from a vacation at their Echo Lake Cabin. John, their young son, was the proud fisherman of the expedition, landing a 14½ inch trout... Donna, his sister, landed a sunburned nose. Lib says that Ted was more excited about John's prowess with the rod and reel, than John himself.

The Ralph Skenes lived in South Africa for 16 years, and have since retired to Carmel. On a stay in the Carmel Valley, Mrs. Skene looked out the window one fine morning, spotted a mountain lion, and says that in all their years in Africa she never saw a lion... had to come to the rugged Carmel veldt for that.

Wilma Cook, editress of the Pine Cone, is back from her vacation.

On the day that the Republican Women's registration booth next to Carmel Realty was being erected, the carpenters had difficulty with the flooring. A passing (and presumably Democratic) wag was overheard... "That platform's just as shaky as I thought it was."

Jack Daugherty, Monterey Rotarian and proprietor of the Casa Munras, spoke to the Carmel Rotary this week about the much discussed Special Events Committee. He pointed out that the committee was formed to help in already scheduled events... a helping and not an initiative hand. There are 36 directors on its board and the events selected for support must be approved by all board members.

Friends of George Cain, Carmel's young photographer, will be happy to hear that he'll be back from a San Francisco hospital on Saturday. He entered it on August 6 and is well on the road to recovery from a leg operation there.

We understand the Carmel Foundation has bought some more property in its effort to provide for the older people of the community. At present the Foundation is fixing up the house on Lincoln as a meeting place. The new acquisition is located in the Highlands and includes four houses.

The photo in question is a post card shot, sent by Rem Bird to Col. Paul Winslow of Pebble Beach. It is marked "Cote d'Azur Varoise, Saint Aygulf, France"... and Mr. Bird says, Nature never repeats herself, but she certainly did this time! View from McBride's property toward Point Lobos... Let Carmel Spectator copy!!

With thanks, we did!!!

Village WeekCOUNCIL SPLITS ON PLAN TO BUY PARKING LOT

After lengthy debate and a split vote, the Carmel City Council this week decided to start the wheels moving towards a bond election for the purchase of a city parking lot. The land involved is the M. J. Murphy lot bounded by Ocean, Junipero, Seventh, and Mission--minus the existing buildings at the corner of Mission and Ocean. The cost is $117,000.

Councilman Donald Craig voted "no," explaining he favored the city buying the remainder of the block after the Ocean avenue frontage is sold--the latter being too valuable for parking space. He also was against the plan to make the lot free of charge.

It was explained that the city is unable to buy only part of the block. The Carmel Business Association, which holds the option on the property has told the council the option cannot be split.

Making the lot free of charge allows the financing to be figured accurately. If parking fees were planned, revenue from the lot could not be accurately forecast, so the addition to the tax rate could only be guessed at. With the purchase money coming entirely from taxes there is no guesswork or estimating--it's six cents.

Under the present plan, the bond issue will be the subject of a special election in October. The cost of the purchase will be a maximum of six cents on the tax rate for 20 years. A two-thirds majority is needed to approve the bonds.

Mayor Horace Lyon explained that the purchase of the whole area would guarantee the city suitable land for possible future development of a civic center. This long-range plan includes a new city hall and other city buildings to be built at the site. The city's present property would be sold to defray part of the building expenses.

Councilman John Chitwood stated that the block under consideration was the last sizeable piece of property available to the city. He said he felt the council would be remiss if it did not give the citizens an opportunity to buy the land.

POST OFFICE JOBS OPEN

Two positions as mail clerks are open at the Carmel Post Office. The starting pay in the jobs is $1.65½ an hour. Only male veterans are eligible.

BILLIE BOLTON AND RIC MASTEN were married Wednesday at the Church of the Wayfarer. The young couple has just finished the four-show presentation of "That's The Ticket," at the Forest Theater. Ric, one of the authors of the musical, and Billie both had parts. Jimmy Griffin sang one of the show's hit tunes, "Book of Dreams," at the wedding. Both are planning to enroll in San Jose State College this fall.

Further information about the jobs can be obtained at the Post Office.

EVEN FIRE-FIGHTING is different here in the Village. Saturday when the department was summoned to the Lawrence Melrose residence at Dolores and 10th, where sparks from the chimney set the roof ablaze, volunteers perched on this ladder were unable to squirt enough water on the shingles. The situation was met by Fireman William L. Askew Jr., who crawled into the attic via a bedroom, groped through the smoke, and hacked a hole in the roof. That's his hand you see reaching up along the ridgepole. Willie hauled the hose through the hole and quenched the flames. Handing him the hose is Maurice Grimshaw, aided on the ladder by Stanley Clay (in white clothes) and Fred Warren. Assistant Fire Chief Gene Ricketts (on ground at extreme right) directs the successful operation.

next Wednesday at 7:15 in the board room at Carmel High School.

A possible subject on the agenda is a discussion of the use of about $70,000 currently available for classroom additions. The decision on whether to spend the sum for additions at the already established Woods School, or at the proposed new River School, has been put over until initial registration figures indicate where the greater need lies.

Matt Corrigan of Pacific Grove has been named Chief Engineer for the Del Monte Properties Company to succeed W. T. Moore, recently named vice president of the company. Corrigan has been in the Del Monte engineering department for the past seven years.

CONDEMNATION SUIT ON CARMEL RIVER BEACH

Negotiations to buy the beach south of the Carmel River for a state park have failed and the state has started condemnation proceedings. The last offer by the state for the 46 acre strip was about $80,000.

The Point Lobos League

has been active in raising funds to go towards the purchase of all the beach area between Carmel Point and San Jose Creek. The League's aim has been to raise funds to match county funds and the total to be matched by the state--thus insuring public ownership of the beach.

Owners of the three parcels involved in the suit include Mrs. J. G. Burnette, Mrs. T. F. Riley, and the third by Mrs. Burnette, Mrs. Riley, Mrs. L. J. Hudson, and Alexander Allen.

WATER RATE HEARING WEDNESDAY IN MONTEREY

A request by the California Water and Telephone Company for a large rate increase will be given its third hearing at the Monterey City Hall next Wednesday. The case will be presented before the State Public Utilities Commission, and the commission is expected to make public its findings from an investigation of the situation.

The Wednesday hearing is expected to be the last public discussion before the Utilities Commission hands down a decision either allowing, disallowing, or approving, in part, the increased rate.

NEW DIRECTOR AND STAR FOR 'CAMILLE'

"Way Down East," the popular melodrama of the '90's, directed by Rhea Diveley, which is currently delighting audiences at California's First Theatre, Monterey, every Friday, Saturday and Sunday night, will close on Saturday night, September 13, making way for the new production of "Camille," which will open on Friday night, September 19.

Sudden illness having taken Rhea Diveley East, several changes have been made in the "Camille" production since the first announcement. Lydia Markow has been engaged as director. To the First Theatre producers this is the greatest good fortune. To have the distinguished Mrs. Markow, who for ten years was a leading actress of the Alexandrinsky Theatre of Petrograd as director, assures the production of outstanding success. Sue Lowry has been cast as Camille, and with Said Riza, an actor whose brilliant ability is recognized among all Peninsula theatres, as Armand, the producers are confident that the production will come up to and even surpass all expectations.

A Review

"THAT'S THE TICKET"

A resounding cheer for all concerned with last week's hit musical "That's The Ticket." From buoyant start to happy ending, it was a polished, professional show, with every performer giving his admirable all.

Mike Monohan furnished the ideal musical comedy book--just enough plot to hold together the many delightful musical numbers and to move things along at a sprightly pace.

Director David Eldridge is to be highly praised for bringing off such a smoothly running show. His choreography made no concessions to the amateur status of the dancers, who went through his complicated routines with never a miss. The fact that there were none of those awkward hiatuses so common to amateur theatricals is immensely to his credit. The audience was able to relax and enjoy themselves thoroughly.

Don Adams' music and Ric Masten's lyrics were memorable and clever, and they will happily be available in recorded form shortly. Their efforts were prodigious and ran from a zippy opening number, "Where in the World," to the tender "Book of Dreams," with the hilarious "Mobsters Don't Eat Lobsters," the beautiful love song, "Please Tell Me," the militant and righteous "Stand Up for Prohibition," the snappy "That Charleston Gal," and many others between.

The romantic leads were beautifully carried by Jack Washburn and Millie Kimball. Mr. Washburn has a fine baritone voice and is a finished, assured performer. Mrs. Kimball, besides lending considerable loveliness to the proceedings, displayed great versatility as a singer and dancer.

That local audiences have a warm spot in their hearts for Ruth McElroy was abundantly evident as she was the sole performer to be greeted on her entrance with a round of applause. Anyone who has seen her perform in the past does not need to be told that she more than earned it. Her wry humor and superb timing were a delight every minute she was on stage. She even passed with flying colors the difficult assignment of talking her way through a song, "Twelve's Not So Old," and left one not with the impression that she did not possess a good singing voice but that it was a very touching and sentimental ballad.

In the role of Douglas

REHEARSALS are in progress now in the Forest Theater's production of "The Women," Clare Boothe's delineation of the unfair sex, which will open September 12. Cole Weston is directing the play, and shown above, in the fight scene, which takes place in a Reno hotel, are (left to right) Jo Wellborne, Suzanne Armstrong, with Betty Fowlston taking it on the shin for her art, and Barbara Norberg and Eileen McDermott being properly horrified. --Marge Cain photo.

Rockby, president of Bradford College, Jimmy Griffin achieved an aura of age and dignity which belied his comparative youth. His splendid singing voice did justice to the beautiful "Book of Dreams," one of the hit numbers.

Additional kudos are due Griffin for his training of the chorus. They sang with great precision and clarity, enabling listeners in the farthest rows to catch every word of the tricky lyrics.

In lesser roles, Dominic DiMare was a perfect Freddy

Butterworth, a character who was just exactly what you'd expect with a name like that. Mary McElroy lent a zestful performance with her Kiki O'Brian and gave out with a Charleston which bids fair to revive the craze of the Twenties herabouts.

The talented threesome who concocted the show also lent their talents as performers. Ric Masten gave a highly comic account of a character with the improbable name of Emile Schultz, and Mike Monohan was a Joe College to end all Joe Colleges as Pete Hooper. Throughout the show, Don Adams pounded the upright for all it was worth and, with his songs, this was far in excess of what the customers paid to get in.

Ken Smith didn't have too much to do in the show, but he made the most of what he had. Nancie Brown had the tough assignment of playing a twelve-year-old and managed to be very credible in the role of Tina Rockby. In their brief scenes, Parker Kimball and George Spelvin (does Westbrook Pegler know about this?) kept up with their illustrious company.

As a more than satisfied customer, this reviewer looks forward eagerly to the next production of this enormously talented trio. However, talent like this will not long be confined to our small bailiwick and it is my feeling that this show marks only the beginning of a successful career in show business for these three -- Mike Monohan, Ric Masten, and Don Adams.

Notices for bids on the new Tularcitos School additions will likely be published this Friday, according to the school board which has received word from architect Thomas Elston Jr., that approved plans have been returned from Sacramento. If this early call for bids is possible it means that they will be opened on or about Friday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. at the schoolhouse, and work may consequently begin around Sept. 22. Bids for purchase of the old Tularcitos Schoolhouse will be asked at the same time construction bids are called for... Purchaser of the buildings and property will be asked to make a down payment, after which title will be transferred around Feb. 1, or when work on the new buildings is completed... Preliminary grading work is expected to be completed by the end of the week...

First hearings on plans to realign the Valley Road between Los Laureles Grade and the Village will be held Monday, Sept. 15, 2 p.m., at the Robles Del Rio Lodge. One group of interested property owners has already selected a committee chairmaned by Fred V. Whelan to represent them at this hearing. Any other interested property owners may appear at this time to present their views. Each one will be allowed 10 minutes' presentation with the further understanding that they submit a typed brief of their argument with any pertinent sketches or estimates.

The Tularcitos Mothers' Club first meeting will be held Tues., Sept. 9, at Mrs. Romie Gameau's home, at 3 p.m. This will be a get-acquainted meeting and new parents of both grade and kindergarten children will be asked to attend...

An unusual and excellent musical program has been arranged for Thursday, Sept. 11, at the Community Chapel, featuring the outstanding group of international singers known as the Fellowship Quintette. These singers, which include a Negro and a Chinese American, have appeared with great success in Europe and America, aboard the luxury ship "Queen Mary." The American Church in Paris, among their many stops. There will be no admission charge to the performance, although voluntary donations will be gratefully accepted...

The Lady Godiva of the Red Convertible who recently received publicity in a local daily, was also seen by two members of the "That's The Ticket" cast who were up in the Valley for a cast party. They were flagged down by a guy standing in the road, who showed them a red convertible bogged down in the sand in front of a local resort (not where the party was held). One of our acquaintances got behind the car and the other behind the steering wheel. The latter noticed a woman beside him in the front seat in a man's short coat. He began "rocking" the car, trying to extricate it from the sand. It wasn't until his eyes got used to the darkness, and the woman, who seemed more than a little tipsy, fell back against the seat that he realized that the lady was wearing only a bare skin. About this time another car drove up, a third man looked in and said: "Now (--name--) I am mad!" Our two acquaintances decided this was the right time to leave...

The newest member of the Monterey County Planning Commission, architect Tom Elston, Jr., first came to Carmel in 1945. Tom was then in the Army, stationed at Fort Ord, and with his wife, Helen, occupied a guest house in Carmel during his tour of duty here. When Tom was discharged, a lieutenant-colonel, in 1946, he and Helen were converts, ready to adopt Carmel for good.

Born in Berkeley, Tom went to the University of California, where he took his A.B. in architecture, and after graduating, worked at his new profession in various Pasadena architectural offices. He entered the infantry right after Pearl Harbor, serving primarily with mountain troops. He spent six months in the Aleutians, and finally returned to civilian life when he became associated with Bob Jones' office in Carmel.

Ready for his own offices in January of '48, Tom began independent practice, and has since done much "public" design, including Woods School, the Carmel Woman's Club, the Hill Theater, and the Tularcitos School in Carmel Valley.

Helen, Tom's attractive, dark haired wife, is the mother of three small Elstons...Pat who is 12, Jeannie who is 11, and Helen, the 14-month-old baby of the family. The Elstons met at Cal, where Helen was an architecture student. She switched to Art, after two years of wrestling with the science of building..and to homemaking, in a domestic sense, after their marriage. Fond of the outdoors, Helen is an enthusiastic camper, as is Tom. They spend vacations on the Sierra ranch of Tom's parents, a place founded by his grandfather who was a Wells Fargo agent in the Early California days.

A past president of the PTA, and active in Girl Scout affairs, Helen now concentrates on raising her family. Tom is currently president of the Kiwanis club, and is a past president of the Carmel Business Association.

Brought to Carmel by its attractiveness, the Elstons have, more than most, supplemented and added to its beauty...community builders, in every sense of the word.

PARADE NEXT SUNDAY DRAWS MANY ENTRANTS

A. B. (Andy) Jacobsen has been named Grand Marshall of the giant Fishermen's street parade to be held here September 7 at 2:30 p.m.

The honorary Grand Marshalls are Mayor Dan Searle of Monterey, Mayor John S. Nelson of Pacific Grove, and Mayor Horace D. Lyon of Carmel.

Honorary Division Marshalls are Police Chief Charles Simpson and Fire Chief Gregory Teaby.

The grand old men of Monterey and the Founders of the Sardine Industry will also be honorary Division Marshalls. They are Pietro Ferrante, Orazio Enea, and Salvatore Cardenelli.

Parade director is Laurence Picetti, and Junior parade directors will be the Monterey Peninsula Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The parade has excited a great deal of interest from outside groups as well as local. Fort Ord's 6th Infantry Military Band and Color Guard will lead the parade, followed by three 6th Infantry companies, approximately 200 men in each company.

Further entries have been received from the Hollister Eagles Drum and Bugle Corps, of Hollister; Young Ladies Institute of Monterey; the Knights of Columbus of Monterey; the state championship Drum Corps of the Italian Catholic Federation from Crockett, and the Society S.S. Madonna Del Lume of the fishing fleet from San Francisco.

There are prizes for the giant street parade, both trophies and cash awards.

NEW ENTRANTS IN FISHERMEN'S QUEEN CONTEST

The contest for the coveted title of Queen of the Fishermen's Festival and the Italian Catholic Federation's 22nd annual convention to be held here September 6, 7, 8 and 9 has excited a great deal of interest.

The latest of the seven candidates to be sponsored is Anna Caronia; her sponsor is Sonny Boy's Pilot Restaurant. The other candidates who have sponsors are: Elizabeth Constanza (Monterey Peninsula

ALBERT M. LESTER, president of the Community Chest, is currently swinging into the final stages of preparation for the Chest's fund-raising campaign which will begin in October. The Chest's goal for this year is $80,217, an increase of $5,217 over last year.

'IF YOU CARE YOU'LL SHARE' WINS CONTEST

"If you care, you'll share!" That's the overwhelming winner in the final balloting of the Community Chest's slogan contest at the Monterey County Fair.

From the Chest's Fair booth, effectively decorated by Mrs. A. D. Studybaker and under the supervision of Daniel Kohn, Monterey merchant, Boy and Girl Scouts obtained the surprising total of about 2,000 votes in the final contest for the slogan the Chest will use as its primary appeal for funds in its forthcoming campaign.

Three slogans, chosen by a special committee from the approximately 100 submitted in the preliminary contest, were balloted upon. Votes were obtained during the Fair's day hours by a crew of eight Girl Scouts, and at night by eight boys.

The winning slogan, "If you care, you'll share," received almost 50 percent of all votes cast. Two persons submitted this slogan, Mrs. L. A. Hunter of Pacific Grove and Shirlee Stoddard of Monterey. Each will receive the $10 first prize offered. The second prize of $7.50 was won by Mrs. George W. Cowley of Monterey with "Help from each means help for all," which received 33 percent of the votes; and third prize of $5 by Mrs. M. W. Corrigan of Pacific Grove with "Give a lift with your gift," which received 28 percent.

In announcing the balloting, Daniel Kohn pointed out how fortunate the Chest is in the number of slogans submitted and in the excellence of the winner.

DRIVERS ALERTED AS SCHOOLS REOPEN

Adults as well as children should start back to school this month if the kids are to escape the traffic hazards they'll face traveling back and forth from classes, the California Highway Patrol said today.

An important item for grownups to brush up on is the speed limit in school zones--15 miles an hour.

THE CURRENT SHOW at the Carmel Art Association Gallery of paintings by Patricia Cunningham has drawn much favorable comment. Included in the exhibit are many scenes of Paris and Northern France which Mrs. Cunningham did on her recent trip abroad. At the opening of the show last Monday a large turnout was on hand, among them (left) Mrs. Elyse Hopkins and Mrs. Hartland Law. Congratulating Mrs. Cunningham in the right-hand picture is W. Harrison Godwin while Samuel F. B. Morse looks on. -- Art McEwen photos.

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. BELANEY

Last week we discussed planting bulbs for spring blooms. We tried to avoid the technical differences of plants known as bulb plants. It is more important to know how to plant and protect them from enemies.

LILY

Another type of bulb is the lily. A few lilies enhance the beauty and color in any garden. They are very easy to grow in any well drained soil, although they thrive best in a loose sandy soil. Once established, they will increase in size, number of flowers, and beauty. Most lilies thrive in a sunny location, with low growing plants around the base to keep the bulb cool and moist.

The tall varieties should be planted back from the border in front of shrubs or among delphinium, digitalis, columbine, or astilbe. These plants keep the bulb base shaded and cool. They also require the same amount of moisture.

REGAL LILY

These gorgeous flowers are bell-shaped and sweet scented with a yellow throat and are lilac pink on the outside. The stem grows three to five feet high and in a few years will bear 10 to 35 blossoms during July. Regal Album is a pure white lily. Its habit of growth is similar to the above regal, but it does not have as many blossoms.

THE BULB

The Regal bulbs resemble the artichoke in shape. They are red and white in color. They must be planted at least 8 to 9 inches deep, depending upon size, on a base of sand mixed with a generous handful of bone meal worked into the soil. Set the base of the bulb on a cushion of sand so that the roots may have freedom to spread. It is a good practice to dust the bulb and the soil with BotanoDeLux, which contains lindane. This should be done with all bulbs.

CANADIAN LILY

The flowers of the Canadian Lily are bell-shaped, usually yellow with dark spots on the inside. It does well in partial or broken shade. It grows three or more feet high and blooms in June.

Plant about 5 inches deep using bone meal, sand, and compost. These bulbs do not grow as tall as the Regal bulbs.

MADONNA LILY -

CASCADE STRAIN

This is a member of the Easter Lily family, also called Candidum Lily. The flowers are waxy white with yellow anthers. It grows two to three feet tall and produces a number of flowers in June. Occasionally, it blooms again in the Fall. Planting directions are the same as for the Canadian Lily.

The florists force these bulbs for Easter blossoms. However, it is necessary to have a greenhouse in order to do this.

The white calla is a well-known variety, with its wax-like flowers and fine foliage. It requires a moist, rich soil, for which use well rotted barnyard fertilizer and compost. It should be planted against a house wall or fence, where it will receive morning sun and partial shade. The bulb (tuber) is planted five inches deep and should be watered freely during the growing season. Add additional fertilizer. It may be divided every three or four years depending upon growth.

The small white and yellow calla lilies should be planted shallowly so that the tip is above the ground. They are low-growing dwarfs, so must be planted in the foreground,

The parade will form at 2:15 p.m. between Reeside and Prescott streets. The route will be down Lighthouse avenue to Alvarado street, up Munras avenue, where it will end.

Over 60 entries have been received so far, plus entries from 17 different cities, with more local entries coming in all the time. The theme of the parade is "The Sea," and the Fishermen's Festival committee requests that bathing suits, mermaids, and the like be eliminated from the floats. The full parade schedule with all entries listed will be announced at a later date. It is still not too late to enter the parade. Send entries to Jeanne Monteagle, Director, Monterey Peninsula Social Events Inc., Box 388, Pacific Grove, or telephone 2-7402.

MR. AND MRS. ALTON H. WALKER of Pebble Beach are pictured (right) in the Gay Nineties attire they sported at a meeting of the Horseless Carriage Club at Yosemite. Mrs. Walker received a gold cup as Best Dressed Woman for the 3-day meet. Mr. Walker, a member of the Monterey Airport Board, is well known locally for his collection of vintage automobiles. The Spectator is indebted to Mrs. John D. Campbell of Mountain View for sending on the photograph.
